

Research Highlights

- Asexual reproduction can be effectively induced via bisection in A. viridis
- Based on histological observations wound healing occurs within a week post-injury
- Lack of lipid peroxidation suggests an effective antioxidant response in the column
- Enzymatic antioxidant activation in tentacles was reverted 20 weeks post-injury
- Biochemical inflammation markers are unaltered during the studied time range